May

Celtis occidentalis
Hackberry

- 60 to 100 feet tall
- 40 to 60 feet spread
- Full sun to full shade
- Dry to wet, well-drained soils
- Tolerates clay, flooding, drought, salt, poor soil, and wind
- Inconspicuous green flowers, followed by orange-brown to black berries
- Larval host for hackberry emperor, American snout, tawny emperor, mourning cloak, and question mark